

The First of New Settlers

70 Arrived Saturday-- Many Have Money-- Are From the States.

The spring rush of settlers from the Western States has already begun. Saturday an advance guard of 70 arrived, including parents and children. With these were ten or twelve others, from England mainly.

A number of those who came have considerable money and will invest in improved farms. All express themselves as content with their first experience of Alberta, notwithstanding the unusual period of rather cold weather here now. Those who have come from the Western States report that the weather to have been very dry and agreeable and severe south of the line.

Most of the arrivals are staying at the immigration hall, and will remain there while this cold may continue. A few of the settlers are staying at various hotels. The next group of settlers to arrive will be accommodated at the temporary building erected for the new immigrants. Mr. C. W. Butler, immigration agent, stated this morning. The new hall only lacks the installation of a heating system.

Will Wage War On The Weeds

Department of Agriculture Giving Serious Attention To This Nuisance.

The department of agriculture are undertaking something new in weed control this spring. Inspectors were sent out last week and are out again this week conferring with the farmers upon the best methods to overcome the weed nuisance.

This work is the outcome of the convention of the weed inspectors held in Edmonton during the seed fair. The weed inspectors, having in mind the most infected parts of their districts, will take early precautions to begin at once to destroy the weed seeds.

In his connection the following order is being sent to every farmer through the weed inspectors--

It is always best to burn the weeds off in the spring (if possible). This destroys many weed seeds and the land works better when there is no stubble.

Disc as early in the spring as possible and harrow. This covers the weed seeds and encourages their germination.

When the small weed plants are small all over the field they should be disked and harrowed again to destroy them and encourage the germination of a new crop.

About the beginning of June the land should be plowed and disked, and if not, at least harrowed every day as it is plowed, and a crop of hardseeded barley sown. It is now in Northern Alberta to sow this barley up to the middle of June.

Cannibalism is Still Practised

Graphic Story of Life in the New Hebrides by Dr. Almood, the Missionary.

To Presbyterians who are familiar with the pages of the Record and others of their church papers, it was a pleasure to greet the familiar face of Dr. Almood, the veteran missionary to the new Hebrides in First Presbyterian church last night and in Queen's Avenue Church yesterday morning.

It is thirty-four years ago since Dr. Almood left Halifax to undertake his arduous and perilous work among the cannibal people of the New Hebrides group. The first Canadian missionary to these islands was John Geddie in 1862.

Dr. Almood gave a very real picture of the missionary's work among a race, the lowest known in the scale of humanity. He pointed out many of the difficulties that stood in the way of missionary enterprise. The chief obstacle was the variety of dialects—one for every island—which had to be learned from sound as these words of scripture is translated in 12 different dialects of the New Hebrides natives.

Again, the people were under the domination of the sacred men, who were believed by the people to have power to inflict disease and plague. These men always carried their secret poisons to effect by means of secret poisons.

Dr. Almood related the most gruesome stories of infanticide and the brutal treatment of women.

Incredible as it may seem cannibalism is practised to this day in the remote portions of some of the islands. Dr. Almood made the statement that during the last nineteen years a human feast a month had been celebrated with all the tragic rites of cannibalism.

Civilization had done nothing for these savages. It is the custom for the young men to go to Queensland, Australia, to work upon the plantations. They return with all the vices and none of the virtues of civilized people. They learn the use of firearms, and quietly falling back into their barbaric customs, they become more terrible than before they came into touch with the white man.

When the crop is about six inches high it will be found of great advantage to harrow it as this will destroy any weeds which may be sown, and to plow for the fall wheat.

There is still a quantity of weeds in the crop when it approaches maturity. It may be cut and ground before the weeds are ripe. Usually, however, it will be found that the growth of barley will choke and kill any weeds which may come up afterwards.

Where fall wheat is grown the method of disking and harrowing at frequent intervals during the summer should be continued till it is time to plow for the fall wheat.

Note—it is particularly important to disk and harrow as soon as possible in the spring and also to harrow the growing grain when it is six inches high.

car passenger service at two cent per mile. The stipulations of the constitution had no weight with him, and he wanted the Federal Government to take into its own hands the administration of the railway law—hardly a compliment for the Conservative. At the suggestion of the province of Ontario the subject had no relation to the business in hand, and Mr. McPherson, of Vancouver, expressed some surprise that Mr. Maclean was so anxious to secure a cheaper rate for Ontario, where three years ago he was fighting to prevent the possibility of any cheaper rates in British Columbia. This brought Mr. Maclean up with a flat denial. Mr. McPherson had not the documentary evidence, but he had his word against that of Mr. Maclean.

Then James Ross, of the Yale Cariboo, got busy with the newspaper files and when an opening occurred produced the black and white record of the division in the Railway Commission in which Mr. Maclean had voted to kill the V. & E. bill and so perpetuate C.P.R. monopoly in that province. Unable to deny the record, Mr. Maclean at length told the House that the reverse side of the railway policy.

Still Nothing At All Definite

At the Miners Conference at Calgary--Delegates are Fraternizing However.

Special to the Bulletin.

Calgary, March 24.—The miners and delegates held two full sessions on Saturday, and discussed many matters pertaining to the various mines with which the new agreement will be made, but at present definite was done. On Saturday night a dinner was held at the Alberts, all delegates to the convention being present. Speeches were made which clearly proved that the present conditions are far from being strained. A noticeable feature of this banquet, and the theatre party which was held the previous evening, was the absence of District President Sherman, of the miners' organization.

All day on Sunday the special committee appointed from the scale committee, consisting of four delegates from each party, will enter the general agreement, clause by clause. The result of the deliberations will be made known to the convention, when it meets in scale committee this afternoon.

Will Canada Accept Proposals

Of Secretary Rook in Reference to the Sealing Industry? Cautious Washington Comment.

London, Mar. 24.—Despatches from Washington containing Secretary of State's proposals for a settlement of the questions at dispute between the United States and Canada are the subject of considerable comment here. With the exception of that in regard to the tariff, the suggestions have been favorably received, although it is admitted that Canada is the best judge of how the various questions should be settled.

It is officially pointed out that contrary to the statement made in despatches, an agreement in principle has not been reached with respect to sealing. It is true that Canada has agreed to accept a mandatory recommendation for the loss of the industry, but other considerations must be expected. In this connection it is expected that Ambassador Borden's communications will further the negotiations. But that Great Britain does not expect an immediate arrangement is shown by the fact that preparations have been made to discuss the whole question with Premier Laurier of Canada, who is coming to London in April in order to attend the colonial conference. The presence here of the premier of Newfoundland, Bond will also be taken advantage of, in an endeavor to reconcile the views of the imperial and colonial authorities in the matter of the Newfoundland dispute.

Steal $200, Paid His Buck Board Bill and Then Escaped.

Special to the Bulletin.

Regina, March 24.—The R. N. W. M. P. are offering a reward for the apprehension of Frank John Fitzgerald, aged 28, speaking with a French Canadian accent, and sometimes going under the alias of Herbert. He is charged with stealing over $200 each from the sale of his employees, the Kerr Land Co. of this city, on the night of Wednesday last. He had access to the safe and stole the key of the closed drawer, taking advantage of the absence of his employer to make for the boundary. His height was five feet nine inches, with medium complexion and thin, pimply face, and he wore glasses. His nerve was shown by the fact that after stealing this sum, rejecting a large amount in change, he went to a city hotel where he wore $20, paid the bill, and redeemed his grip and gold watch, afterwards repacking.

The thief was not discovered until the following evening. The missing man was born in New York City, and afterwards lived in Montreal. He is an expert bookkeeper.

Phillips is Given Five Years

President of York Loan Sentenced in Toronto--Was Not Visibly Affected.

Special to the Bulletin.

Toronto, March 24.—Joe Phillips, president of the defunct York County Loan and Savings Co., was sentenced on Saturday by Judge Winchester to five years in the Kingston penitentiary on a charge of conspiracy and theft were withdrawn.

In delivering his charge the judge remarked at some length on the seriousness of the offence committed by Phillips in using money belonging to the loan company to pay or help the pay agents who were canvassing for subscription, on the losses which 122,000 persons in Canada, most of whom were comparatively poor, would have to bear, through the misappropriation of the money entrusted to his savings, and in the fact that restitution had not been made by Phillips until he was obliged to make it.

The former president of a company which had shareholders in nearly every part of the Dominion showed no visible sadness or depression when sentence was pronounced. He dropped his head slightly and closed his eyes for a moment.

WILL PLOUGH RESERVE.

Macleod, March 24.—A new policy in the handling of the Blood Indians by the government has been introduced. A traction engine has been loaned to the Indians and is intended to be used as soon as the weather has settled down to good behavior, to rip up some 1,200 acres of virgin and unploughed land. This will be divided into forty acre plots, each of which will be assigned to an Indian who will be willing to undertake the work. It is not improbable that this experiment will prove nucleus of a great big farming industry which will revolutionize the part of the country to the south of the following towns: Olds, Lacombe, Red Deer, Wetaskiwin, and Windfall.

EXTENSION OF FRANCHISE TO NORTHWEST GAS AND OIL COMPANY.

Editor, The Bulletin.—I respectfully request space in your paper for a few remarks in connection with the above.

Taking for granted that the citizens of Edmonton have been and are almost unanimously in favor of municipal ownership of all its franchises, a few insights on the granting of the franchise to the Northwest Gas and Oil Co. should be permissible.

At the time this franchise was granted of the town was contemplating, and had under way, extensive improvements in its electric lighting plant, and the people were in favor of the necessary expenditure as a municipal undertaking. But a rather extraordinary state of affairs shows up.

The mayor and council, by their action, are presenting a people in favor of municipal ownership, give to a corporation an exclusive franchise (provided it succeeds in obtaining natural gas) showing they bind the town to the probability of excessive charges and the exclusion of competition from other corporations or from the town itself.

The company, it appears, was not successful in its search for gas. It came before the 1906 council and requested financial assistance. The council promised to consider the request, providing the company would relinquish some of the monopolistic clauses in its franchise. This it refused to do, proceeding with its work without the assistance asked for, still unsuccessful, it now wants to hold up the city for an extended period of time; for what purpose we do not know. But as the company has ceased operation, it will naturally be inferred that it will this time extend its franchise to some other corporation or individual.

Another peculiar feature about this deal is that at the time this franchise was granted, the mayor, some members of the council, the town solicitor, and the secretary-treasurer, together with one or two ex-mayors, and other citizens who are presumed to have a pull, are reported as being stockholders in this gas and oil company.

The opinion is pretty general that some of our prominent citizens have shown just as much disposition to hold up the city as could any possible outsider, and the contention that this company is entitled to a preference because they are local men, should have no weight.

Our citizens generally will have to bear the burden caused by the monopolistic clauses in this franchise, and this is the opportune time to get rid of this menace by refusing the extension asked for.

It is in the opinion of the council it is necessary to give a franchise to any company or individual in order to serve our citizens with such convenience as gas for domestic use and power purposes, it is to be sincerely hoped that the council will give exclusive franchise, and will see that the interests of the citizens are safeguarded in every particular.

Yours truly,
THOS. BELLAMY.

RACING CIRCUIT FORMED.

Calgary, March 26.—The result of a recent meeting held at Innisfail, which was attended by representatives of all the important towns on the Calgary and Edmonton branch a racing circuit was arranged for this spring.

The proposal is to have the racing start here on Empire Day and from this point they will work north taking in the following towns: Olds, Lacombe, Red Deer, Wetaskiwin, and Windfall.

ing up at Edmonton for the fair. This will give the five race meetings in six weeks, and there will only be a couple of hundred miles to travel to take them all in. Calgary is driving $5,000 for the horse races and Edmonton will hang up a purse to the amount of $5,000 for their fair. The intermediate points will all have about $2,000 for the horse races.

This makes an ideal circuit and will not doubt be taken advantage of by horsemen from all over the west. There are already many good horse men in the west and the announcement of this arrangement will bring many others.

There will be no entrance fee charged for any of the races.

THE TITANIC STRUGGLE BETWEEN RAILWAY GIANTS

The Story of How Jim Hill Squeezed Harriman and Morgan. A Romance of the Financial World.

Three figures are largely in the line light in the investigation now proceeding before the Interstate Commerce Commission, Mr. E. H. Harriman, Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and Mr. J. J. Hill, the latter a Canadian who started life as a teamster. The following extracts from an appreciative article in the Boston News Bureau tend to show that this ex-4-miler has been on Morgan and Harriman, the brains of the railway men of today, out of their boots, and now has a system of railway passing through a fertile freight-producing country and capitalized at only $27,000,000 per mile, while Harriman's Union Pacific is capitalized at about $100,000,000 per mile. Here are the extracts:

Hill Beats Harriman.
Boston—J. J. Hill happened to be sitting in his office in Pine street. Word came that the Supreme Court of the United States had decreed that the Northern Securities Company was an illegal combination and must be dissolved.

"All right," said Mr. Hill, and he added, "What the Supreme Court says goes here."
Without a word of anger or betraying in any way that his temper was ruffled in the slightest, Mr. Hill proceeded to dissolve the greatest combination of railway capital the world had ever seen. People said, "This will kill Hill. The Northern Securities Company was the dream of his life."

They little knew the truth. Few know to this day that F. H. Harriman was the real cause of the Northern Securities Company. It was nothing but J. J. Hill's instrument to drive home his victory in the Northern Pacific battle.

At the time of the formation of the Northern Securities Company E. H. Harriman had about $75,000,000 or more than 50 per cent. of Northern Pacific stock and was nearly in control of the situation. When the Northern Securities was dissolved Harriman had 15 per cent. of Northern Pacific stock and about the same percentage of Great Northern. He had not even a footing in the Northern Pacific down and out and J. J. Hill had won.

Their Guiding Genius.
The Northern Securities Company has practically faded away, but the Hill roads still exist. Not only in respect of mileage, but in net earnings as well, they make the greatest aggregation of railways under one head in the world.

The Northern Pacific is absolutely independent of the Great Northern and for that matter always has been. Even the Burlington—so far as management goes—is independent of either of them, yet, like the leaves of a clover, all three roads cling to the one stem, and that stem is J. J. Hill.

The guiding genius and pivot point of all three roads is James J. Hill. The story of how he took the old St. Cloud road when it was a wreck, paying for it a fabulous price; how, under his management, it grew in 1880 to the Great Northern Railway; and how he pushed the Great Northern Railway through the Rocky Mountains to its present position among the railroads of the country—this story is well known to all.

Beats Mr. Morgan.
His activity in Northern Pacific affairs began at the time of the bankruptcy of that company in the middle of the 90's. He was a great, though not a conspicuous, power in its organization. Ever a great believer in the Northwest, he was a believer also in the Northern Pacific Railway.

In 1901, after the famous Northern Pacific battle between the Hill-Morgan and Harriman-Kuhn, Loeb people, J. F. Morgan & Co. had $20,000,000 Northern Pacific stock with which they did not know what to do.

Mr. Morgan had little faith in the road. He gladly sold out to Mr. Hill. Mr. Hill saw the stock go to $22 in five years. Thus Mr. Hill had outdistanced both Mr. Harriman and Mr. Morgan.

The Burlington and Canada.
Mr. Hill took the breath away from Harriman, scared the Burlington people, and startled the whole financial world by his suddenness in offering $200 a share for Burlington stock. "A day's work," over one of J. J. Hill's trump cards, won in this case, as it always did before. The strategic position of the Hill roads was fortified for ever.

a new transcontinental road in Canada, people laughed. "Another Hill job," they said.
It is no joke, however, Mr. Hill is in dead earnest. The world has the spectacle of a man nearly 70 years of age, already the dominating force in three great transcontinental systems, building a fourth one. The last of the work through the mountains has already been done. Mr. Hill will take this time.
High Earnings, Low Capitalization.
The Hill roads are capitalized at about $27,000,000. They had at least accounts about $20,000,000 working capital. The net capitalization of the railroads is, therefore, $70,000,000, this on nearly 51,000 miles or main lines of road. It amounts to only $27,000 per mile. When the Hill stockholder takes in these lines, embracing the gardens of America, their terminals in Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, the Twin Cities, Butte, Portland, Tacoma, Seattle, etc., etc., with their thousands of equipment and business of $20,000,000 to 50,000,000 a year, and reflects that all is represented by a net capital of but $27,000 a mile at a day when they could not be duplicated for twice that figure, he has some measure of the value of his property. When this is contrasted with the Union Pacific's capitalization of nearly $100,000 a mile the source of Mr. Hill's strength is easy to see. As one of his admirers puts it: Mr. Hill's railroads have ten per cent. of the country's mileage, 4 per cent. of capital debt, five per cent. of fixed charges and 17 per cent. of surplus earnings.

OLD PLAY DYING OUT.
One of the most beautiful plays ever introduced into the American National game, a play so thrilling that for three decades it has been served to bring the big crowds to their feet in a perfect frenzy of enthusiasm and delight, is fast becoming obsolete. The stealing or even the attempt at stealing of third base is seldom seen in these days when baseball is popularly supposed to have reached its loftiest pinnacle of perfection.
Of course certain players and fans who, by a superhuman effort, can think back as far as last season, will immediately bob up with the claim that the catchers of today watch the bases better than did the old-time catchers.

The fact is that the stealing of third base is practically a forgotten art. Or if not forgotten it's a bit of daring all too seldom essayed.
A brainy runner ought to be able to get a much longer lead off second than off first, for he is directly back of the pitcher and can get away with the twister's arm. Moreover, third base is not nearly as well guarded against base stealing as is the second base bag.
The third baseman can be drawn in and out of position to tag a base stealer if the man at bat is on to his job and makes an apparently serious effort to bunt. To get the base runner he must dart backward, ignoring the stealer and the bag and keeping his eyes on the ball. Then, too, a high-leaping better by standing alone still can make the throw to third very difficult. A great many catchers in circumstances like this throw badly, and when the ball goes away from the third baseman it means a run, sure, as he can seldom be backed up in time for anyone to nail the runner at the plate.

In the professional leagues teams this year stringent rules governing disputes will be enforced, the same as in league baseball circles.

STRATHCONA

The Strathcona city authorities have requested all parties having petitions for extensions of sewer and waterworks to have them placed in the hands of the Secretary Treasurer on or before Tuesday, March 26th.

Parents who have children entering for the first time the primary classes of the city schools are requested to send them for the opening day after the Easter holidays on Tuesday, April 2nd. It is desirable that all be present on that day for the purpose of classification.

The local court of the Canadian Order of Foresters are making arrangements for a concert and basket social which they purpose holding in Douglas hall on Friday, April 12th. In this connection arrangements are also being made for a voting contest between Miss J. Fisher and Miss S. Sutherland. A lot of five cents is to be charged for each vote which may be given between now and the night of the social and the winner will be announced on that evening.

The regular semi-monthly meeting of No. 164 L. O. L. will be held in the Orange hall on Lundon avenue on next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Some important business is to be transacted and a large attendance of the brethren is requested. Any visiting members of the order are cordially invited to be present.

Messrs. Montfield and Graves have just completed alterations to their real estate office and have now among the most commodious and up-to-date quarters in the city. This office is also the head office of the Western Timber and Mines Co. Anniversary services were held in the Methodist church at Clover Bar yesterday.

The Assessor issues tax certificates under the revised amendment to the city charter instead of the Secretary-Treasurer as formerly.

Messrs. Second and York, the new proprietors of the Alberta hotel, are carrying out several improvements in the arrangements and furnishings of that well known hostelry.

The Acme Co., Ltd., have completed the installation of their passenger elevator which is one of the first of the modern elevators installed in the city. It is operated by a motor generator set, the elevator motor being direct current.

It is expected that new elevators will shortly be installed in the Alberta and Windsor hotels and the Hudson's Bay stores.

Electric motors have been installed for the Saturday News Pub. Co. and R. M. Armstrong.

A. W. Ormsby, city electrician, is erecting a two-story store on Fifth street just north of Jasper.

STILL DREAMING.

Albertans—Now that the Lethbridge people have got into the habit of peering hot air about their baseball team, Calgary is the only city on the circuit prepared to sit down and wait until the contest comes in to play out the ball games, and Calgary is pretty sure that first place will be the reward of such Christian forbearance and patience.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS.

F. Sisk, manager of the Lethbridge Bowling and Malling Company, has donated a silver horn valued at $30 to the proposed Junior Lacrosse League of Southern Alberta.

$7,000 will be offered in prizes at the Montreal Horse show this year.

NEW WOODWORK FACTORY.

A new woodwork factory is being built on Lots 3 and 4 in Block 20, R. L. 13, by Messrs. Randall and McKay. The machinery is now on the ground and when set up will be driven by motor power. The first installation is a fifteen horse power electric motor which has just been placed in position.

McKAY AVE. SCHOOL VENTILATION.

McKay Avenue school is shortly to adopt the Peas patent heating and ventilating system now in use in many of the public buildings in the larger Canadian cities. A five horse power motor will be installed for driving the necessary fans and purer air will be one of the features that will in future characterise the education of the young people in that institution.

LACROSSE.

The hockey enthusiasm having faded lacrosse is now to the fore and a meeting will be held this week to re-organise for the year. There is every prospect of having numerous fast players in the city and it is expected the game will boom at the Capital this season.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

Bruce Robinson, president of the Western Canada Baseball League, has returned from a journey to the south country, taking in Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. He says that baseball is at fever heat in both places. If there is keen rivalry in Edmonton and Calgary, it is nothing to the rivalry between Lethbridge and Medicine Hat. Both teams are in the heat of shape and there will be many hard fought battles between these two contesting teams.

The Lethbridge team is complete or just about complete. Manager Morrison has signed twelve players and is quite well satisfied with his team. He informs the people of Lethbridge that he has a much better team than he had last year. Last year he led the Calumet team which stood first in the league for most of the season. A team that is much better than that is ahead of any team in the northern Cooper County League of last season. The Lethbridge finances are pretty much on easy street. The club owns the ball park and on account of the rise in Lethbridge real estate, this is a very valuable asset. At present the Lethbridge people are looking after the stock, and the stock is not looking after the people.—Albertan.

LETHBRIDGE'S LATEST.

Lethbridge, March 25. — John W. Morrison, manager of the Lethbridge professional baseball team has, according to a letter received by A. E. Hamprie, signed two more players Martin Lindsay of Mortonville, Ind., and Jack Pagit of Detroit, Mich. Pagit is an infielder, 22 years old, 5 feet 8 inches in height, weight 180 pounds, who batted .288 last year. Morrison writes concerning Pitcher Schuch, whom he recently signed that this should be Schuch's last season in minor league ball, as he is due to graduate into faster company.

DOWNES STILL WINS.

Jack Downes, the Edmonton wrestler, who has been wintering at the coast, has been keeping in shape by working out against some of the best athletes across the line.

His most notable performance was at Fairmount, Minn., early in the month where on two different evenings he took on James McAuley, known as the pride of St. Paul. The first night they clinched, Downes secured two of the three falls, scoring his victories with one Greco-Roman holds.

The second evening's sport was a repetition of the first, McAuley getting the first fall and Downes the next two. McAuley is much the younger man and also had the advantage in weight, he being classified as a heavy-weight (190 pounds), while Downes' weight was 164 pounds.

Downes won the first evening on the Greco-Roman variety of neat work, but the second evening's work was catch-as-catch-can.

HEAVY PAY ROLL.

It has been figured out that the American league clubs this year will pay out nearly half a million dollars in salaries to the players. It is said that the Cleveland Club tops the list with a pay roll of $60,000. The Boston club is second with about $70,000, while the New York club is third with $65,000. The salaries of the Chicago White Sox will amount to $60,000. Then comes Detroit with $50,000, Washington with $45,000, and Philadelphia with $44,000.

In the National League it is believed that the New York club's pay roll will amount to about $60,000, with Chicago's about the same. Pittsburgh comes next with possibly $50,000, while Brooklyn's will foot up close to $40,000. Cincinnati will have a low-salaried team, the total being not more than $35,000, while Philadelphia will not go above the $30,000 mark. The Boston and St. Louis clubs will pay an even smaller amount, as nearly all of their players are cheap men.

Teams Play in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, March 22.—Fans are looking forward to the opening of the season in which Calgary and Lethbridge teams of the Western Canada League will hold forth against the Maroons. Calgary plays three exhibition games in the city, the series being fixed for May 9, 10 and 11. Lethbridge follows on the 13 and 14, and the Maroons should be then ready for the opening of the season on the 16th.

SMASH INDOOR RECORDS.

At the annual championship indoor track meet at Chicago this week a number of the best indoor records were broken and also one world's record.

The latter went to Great of Illinois who cleared the bar in the pole vault at 19 feet 1 inch, the previous mark being 11 feet 7 1/2 inches.

Merriam, the conference champion, clipped a quarter of a second off the supposedly sensational record of .39 for the quarter mile.

A quarter of a second was looped off the 400 yards for the sixty yard sprint, from negotiating the distance in the world's record time of .58 .54.

More record-breaking stunts were brought out in the two-mile run, Gibson, of the Central Y.M.C.A., ran the easterners route in 10:08 .44, which eliminated four and one-fifth seconds from the Central A.A.U. mark of Mac-Kachron, of the University of Wisconsin, made in 1904.

CURLING.

E. A. Molson won the medal in the point competition at Red Deer this year. His score was 28. Next high man was Slade who ran up 24. Mr. Molson was the second man on the Drake rink this winter.

George Whitlock won the points button in the final competition at Moose Jaw, Tuesday night. His total was 25. Five others were close up, with 23.

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S PREMIER FIGHTING FOR THE C.P.R.

McBride will Contest the Grand Trunk Pacific's Right through Land Which was Purchased from Indians.

(Ottawa Free Press.)
It is announced that the McBride Government will resist any attempt of the Grand Trunk Pacific to occupy and utilize the land bought by the company from the Metlakatla Indians as a site for its Pacific terminals, and will dispute the company's right to the land in the courts.

The announcement will occasion no surprise among those familiar with the history of the McBride Government since and modern except the quiet natural surprise that such an announcement should be considered necessary. Remembering that the McBride Government is still a government, and will dispute the company's right to the land in the courts.

A Provincial Government which has stored land subsidies on the Canadian Pacific Railway for a road which has not been built scarcely needs to attest in words the warmth of its attachment to that company, nor the uncompromising hostility it may be relied upon to display towards all possible competitors of that company. And when the Minister of Lands and Works, who, as he claims to have supposed, sold a terminus to such competitor, is unceremoniously kicked out from the provincial cabinet, it does not require a statutory declaration to prove that the combination is a working alliance and not an incidental association. And when the premier of that province is provided by that railway company with a special train with which to conduct his election campaign the reciprocal nature of the partnership is not a matter of any very serious doubt. Under such circumstances, the assertion of Mr. McBride and his associates to delay and obstruct the construction of the Grand Trunk Pacific is the only alternative to proving traitors to the powerful ally to whom they owe their political lives.

The announcement that they will assert themselves is simply an announcement that they will deliver the goods on the basis of "quid pro quo." What is the nature of the service which Mr. McBride will render to his corporation colleagues? What does he mean to the province of British Columbia, and what to the Dominion of Canada?

The service to be rendered by the British Columbia Government is that they will contest in the courts the right of the Grand Trunk Pacific to occupy and develop terminal facilities upon some thirteen thousand acres of land formerly part of the Metlakatla Indian reserve, and in regard to which the company have purchased the rights of the Indians some time since a company of adventurers, male and female, secured from the British Columbia Government a tract of 10,000 acres not considered large enough for their terminals, and entered into negotiations with the Dominion Government to secure 13,000 acres of the Indian reserve adjoining. The Dominion Government did not own the land, could not sell the land, and did not try to sell it. They did, however, authorize the Indian Agent to treat with the company for the sale of the Indians' rights in the land. This the agent did and secured for the Indians in satisfaction of their claim a price of $7.50 per acre for the land.

In order to enable the Indians to secure as good prices as possible from the company, the Dominion Government asked the British Columbia Government to waive the reversionary interest of that province in the land. This interest consists in the fact that the Indians in British Columbia are considered and dealt with differently than elsewhere in Canada. In the Northwest the Indians are considered the original proprietors of the soil, are settled with on that basis, and a sale by them gives a clear title of possession to the land in question, which they did for a sum amounting to $7.50 per acre. To make clear that the Dominion Government had not undertaken to dispose of any interest in the province of British Columbia might have in the land, an agreement was secured from the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company expressly stipulating that the Dominion could not be held liable for any right the province of British Columbia might claim. Such claim Premier McBride and his colleagues are now to contest in the courts for the purpose of preventing the Grand Trunk Pacific from immediately occupying the land and proceeding with the establishment of their terminal facilities there.

The legal questions of whether or not the reversionary interest of British Columbia has any existence at the present time, and if so, what is the character and extent of that interest—are matters for the courts to determine. But the public both of British Columbia and of the Dominion at large have a very material and legitimate concern in the inevitable consequences of the delay in the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific which must result from a prolonged legal battle over the Pacific terminals. That the battle will be prolonged, that it will be carried from court to court until the final authority has been invoked, is the necessary assumption from the enormous interests involved and from the resources of the litigants.

The interests at stake, it must be remembered are not merely the cash value of the land in dispute—they include also the interests of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company in completing its line at the earliest possible date, and the interests of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in preventing the completion of that line as long as possible. For there is no reason to suppose that the alliance between the McBride Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway has come to a conclusion, and whether so or not the fact remains indisputable that any legal action which delays the completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific, in the very act of doing so continues for that time the monopoly of the Canadian Pacific Railway allies in the transportation field in British Columbia and in the trans-Canadian traffic. The declaration of Premier McBride is, therefore, that he will either deliberately or incidentally maintain railway monopoly in British Columbia as long as a legal fight will permit him to do so, and the circumstances tend strongly to the conclusion that he does so by design and not in innocence. The happy position of the Canadian Pacific Railway is that the province of British Columbia will make war upon its rival, and bear the financial burden of doing so.

Grand Trunk Pacific trains will be running into Edmonton during the fall of the present year. Survey parties are now completing the final location of the line from Edmonton to the Pacific coast. But will the construction of the road from the Alberta capital westward be begun until the question of the terminals is settled? Will the company prejudice its case in the courts by intimating that it will build to the Pacific coast regardless of the penalty which may be imposed upon it for so doing? If the terms of the Grand Trunk Pacific for the first three years of its operation in Edmonton and Port Simpson to the people of British Columbia have only to thank the government when they have permitted the Canadian Pacific Railway to inflict upon them.

What does this blockading of the Grand Trunk Pacific mean to the province of British Columbia? That province is one thousand miles long and six hundred miles wide. This enormous area is traversed by a single line of railway from east to west, and at present there is no immediate prospect of another east and west line, save that of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The route of this road traverses a region the equal in mineral and timber resources of that which is traversed by the Canadian Pacific Railway, and far surpassing that region in the extent of agricultural land. It is a matter of no moment to British Columbia that the marvelous developments and prosperity of the southern portion of the province be duplicated by the opening up of the central portion of that province. Have the merchants in the cities of Victoria and Vancouver anything to fear from the rush of settlers into an enormous fertile area lying near the coast and within comparatively easy reach of water transportation? Have sea smelters on Vancouver Island no interest in the development of the northern mineral resources? Does not the whole province stand to double both its population and its prosperity by the construction of the new road? And does it not make a difference and a very material difference to the people of British Columbia whether this averaging began in 1906 or is deferred as long as Mr. McBride's lawsuit can delay it?

There are others interested in the completion of the new line. The people of the prairie provinces have looked to the Pacific for an outlet for at least a portion of their grain and stock products. They believe that a profitable business could be carried on by water from British Columbia ports to the markets of Europe and the Orient, but experience has proved that it is not so easy to carry out as competition has brought the costs of hauling the produce to the coast down to something like a reasonable figure. "Alberta rail" wheat could be shipped from Vancouver. If the railway rates were not so manipulated as to force it to go eastward. And until those rates are adjusted by the pressure of competition, "long alley" wheat will pay excessive rates on westward shipment, and so long will the British Columbia ports be deprived of the benefits which are legitimately theirs.

Canada hopes to become the great commercial highway between Europe and the Orient, and no province in the whole Dominion stands to profit so largely as British Columbia from its accomplishment of this ideal. But every day which is lost in accomplishing this purpose forces more firmly the establishment of other routes, and the grip of other interests upon this trade. Whatever may be the legal outcome, the obstructive method which Mr. McBride has chosen is a blow to the development of an all-Canadian route for the accommodation of this round-the-world trade—a trade from which the whole British Empire is to derive very material benefit. It is from which no province of the Dominion can derive such large measure of benefit as the province of British Columbia.

OUR ENGLISH LETTER.

The Two Chamberlains—The Colonial Conference—Old Bailey in New Quarters—Parliament for Sir Charles Tupper.

Mr. Austen and Mr. Joe.

The Chamberlains, father and son, have points of resemblance in mind as well as in body. They both speak trenchantly and make themselves clearly understood by any audience, and they both demand the sincerest and plainest from others that they give themselves. Mr. Austen, late Chancellor of the Exchequer, is built on larger lines physically than his son, the late Colonel Maistair, sent, as well as an immense number of distinguished lawyers and public with softened features and more grace, and the rags he gives his opponents are something less "severe," but there is a marked likeness all the same. It was well brought out this week in discussing Canadian preferences at the Birmingham jewellers' annual banquet. This function has attained some political prominence owing to the fact that Mr. Chamberlain, senior, always attends, and has made several pronouncements of importance on these occasions. The only times he has failed to materialize since his rise into importance have been when he was in the throes of diplomatic trouble before the "war" and when he was in South Africa after the war. Each time his son has taken his place, as he did this week, owing to his distinguished father's illness. Austen Chamberlain's speech, a vigorous one even for him, made a strong appeal for reform of the home customs duties, and was based mainly on the case of Canada as an argument. Ten years ago, he said, our trade with your colony was dropping steadily and rapidly. Then came the well known offer of preference, and the result was the trade in the articles affected went up and steadily up. Under the new intermediate tariff Germany had a chance, and would probably take it to reduce the advantage, the possibility being a very grave one for the Britisher. Speaking to the richest trade (the "Birmingham Jewellers") produce many rich men in one of the greatest trading centres of the old country. Mr. Chamberlain had his audience entirely with him. It does not look as though the movement for tariff reform in the old country were very dead just yet, at any rate in the Chamberlain sphere of influence.

Straight Tip From the Colonies.

A Parliamentary White Paper was issued on Monday on the question of the Colonial conference, which will occupy so much of the attention of the old country in a few weeks' time. If it had been done deliberately, a day could not have been chosen on which the matter should attract less attention, for on that day there were a whole host of other newsworthy items, not the least of which was the army reform scheme of the new War Minister. None the less, outside a very limited circle the press found room for extended discussion of the publication and for long editorial remarks. Generally speaking, surprise is expressed that while we are given information as to the views of Australia, New Zealand and Cape Colony, the suggestions of Canada, Newfoundland and Natal are omitted for some unexplained reason. Still the opinions expressed by the colonies named give us something to be going on with. The great Australian colonies are for reaffirmation of the resolution in favor of preferential trading which were passed by the Colonial Conference of five years ago, but had none of the importance then that they had since the question became a burning one in English politics. Cape Colony "yes the whole hog" in the approved Chamberlain style, and the Tariff Reform press hail with delight their intimation that the present one-sided state of things cannot go on indefinitely. As the matter presents itself to the minds of our leading editors, on one side at any rate, this is half way towards sweeping away the notion that the colonies are satisfied at present. The other side in the press are like Nelson, and have a blind eye for the awkward question.

The King on the Bench.

The Old Bailey, which has witnessed so many a tragedy, and so many a comedy, which has seen the last incident in the lives of so many criminals and has figured in the daily "dramatic romances," has gone at last. The new Bailey, or "new Old Bailey," the Londoners love to call it, has been formally opened by the King, presiding at a stately and imposing function. There is something incongruous in the splendour of the new home of London's leading criminal court. The marble steps from the dock on which some writers have decried as a false—the steps are of wood—but four years continuous labor by the builders have really produced a most elaborate structure, and if the prisoners do not feel very comfortable when they get there, the bar and the jurors have nothing to complain about. The Royal procession for the opening was the occasion for a splendid greeting from the people of London. The Archbishop of Canterbury, a number of Cabinet ministers, and a large proportion of the judges of the High Courts were present. The King's speech was a brief plea for reforming prisoners instead of building the walls of the prison.

Grand Old Man.

Sir Charles Tupper, the veteran Canadian, will be presented with his portrait in oils just as these lines are leaving the shores of Old England in the mail boat. The portrait has a curious history. It represents Sir Charles as he was a generation ago, seated at his desk, and was the work of E. J. Turner, now dead. It found its way by some means into an auction room, and was bought by subscription by some of Sir Charles's Canadian friends in London. The other Canadian veterans, Lord Strathcona, makes the presentation. Sir Charles maintains his wonderful vigour at his desk, and having been all the winter with his daughter in the beautiful Beasley Heath neighborhood has seen much of his friends and colleagues in this country. By the way, he is now the only survivor of the delegates who came to this country to arrange the British North America Act, under which the provinces of Canada were federated.

most summer to take from local growers all the fruit they can supply at market prices.

In an interview recently Lady Gordon-Lennox spoke hopefully of the success of her venture.

"Even if it is a failure," she said, "it will be a guide as to the future. The Banbury district is particularly suitable for fruit-growing, and my proposal is to encourage its development."

"Our own country should benefit by the enormous demand for preserved and bottled fruits, which is increasing annually."

She believes the business can be carried on profitably and will invest her money to substantiate her conviction.

THE COMMUNER.

A MOVING SCENE AT OTTAWA.

One of the most touching scenes witnessed in the Commons at Ottawa since the death of Sir John Macdonald is said to have been witnessed upon the announcement of the death of Dr. Stockton the representative of St. John, N. B. As Sir Wilfrid remarked in making the announcement that was the third time in the course of a week that a similar painful duty had been imposed on him. Already during this season seven members and three senators had died. Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Borden spoke in sincerely eulogistic terms of their dead colleague.

Following these Dr. Daniel of St. John had intended to speak, but upon rising he was overcome with emotion. "Without being able to finish his opening sentence, Dr. Daniel resumed his seat and buried his face in his hands."

He had only said: "I wish to join in the tribute which has just been—But then he broke down and wept, and Dr. Armstrong of East Lambton, said: "On behalf of the member for St. John City may I be permitted to read what he was going to say with reference to the death of Dr. Stockton."

Following Dr. Armstrong's reading of the vote, Mr. Foster rose and speaking with an effort said: "I did want to say a word too, but I cannot," and with that the ex-minister left the chamber to conceal his emotion.

AN ALGERIEN PEREGRINE.

Lady Alison Gordon-Lennox, sister-in-law of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, is about to embark in business in England as a fruit-bottler.

With a view to developing the fruit-bottling industry at home, she is going to establish works at Brougham Castle, near Banbury, and hopes most summer to take from local growers all the fruit they can supply at market prices.

In an interview recently Lady Gordon-Lennox spoke hopefully of the success of her venture.

"Even if it is a failure," she said, "it will be a guide as to the future. The Banbury district is particularly suitable for fruit-growing, and my proposal is to encourage its development."

"Our own country should benefit by the enormous demand for preserved and bottled fruits, which is increasing annually."

She believes the business can be carried on profitably and will invest her money to substantiate her conviction.

Still I my way pursue
On to the goal of the weary soul,
Heart o' My Heart, with you.

THE COMMUNER.

A MOVING SCENE AT OTTAWA.

One of the most touching scenes witnessed in the Commons at Ottawa since the death of Sir John Macdonald is said to have been witnessed upon the announcement of the death of Dr. Stockton the representative of St. John, N. B. As Sir Wilfrid remarked in making the announcement that was the third time in the course of a week that a similar painful duty had been imposed on him. Already during this season seven members and three senators had died. Sir Wilfrid and Mr. Borden spoke in sincerely eulogistic terms of their dead colleague.

Following these Dr. Daniel of St. John had intended to speak, but upon rising he was overcome with emotion. "Without being able to finish his opening sentence, Dr. Daniel resumed his seat and buried his face in his hands."

He had only said: "I wish to join in the tribute which has just been—But then he broke down and wept, and Dr. Armstrong of East Lambton, said: "On behalf of the member for St. John City may I be permitted to read what he was going to say with reference to the death of Dr. Stockton."

Following Dr. Armstrong's reading of the vote, Mr. Foster rose and speaking with an effort said: "I did want to say a word too, but I cannot," and with that the ex-minister left the chamber to conceal his emotion.

AN ALGERIEN PEREGRINE.

Lady Alison Gordon-Lennox, sister-in-law of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, is about to embark in business in England as a fruit-bottler.

With a view to developing the fruit-bottling industry at home, she is going to establish works at Brougham Castle, near Banbury, and hopes most summer to take from local growers all the fruit they can supply at market prices.

In an interview recently Lady Gordon-Lennox spoke hopefully of the success of her venture.

"Even if it is a failure," she said, "it will be a guide as to the future. The Banbury district is particularly suitable for fruit-growing, and my proposal is to encourage its development."

"Our own country should benefit by the enormous demand for preserved and bottled fruits, which is increasing annually."

She believes the business can be carried on profitably and will invest her money to substantiate her conviction.

DAY TO DAY

HEART O' MY HEART.
Heart o' My Heart the day is done
Homeward I turn to thee,
Knowing full well at the setting sun
Love waits to welcome me.
Weary my foot, but I haste away
After the toil is through Eager to see and eager to be,
Heart o' My Heart, with you.

HEART O' MY HEART, we side by side,
Wander on Love's highway;
Hand in hand whatever betide,
Trusting, let come what may,
Slowly the sun dips in the west,
Still I my way pursue
On to the goal of the weary soul,
Heart o' My Heart, with you.
